Drive By Shooting Leaves North Student Injured

At 8:04 Tuesday morning police officers were called to the front of the fire station on Cranford. A Monte Carlo with three suspects pulled to a stop and yelled something undetermined at three youths walking toward North High School. A person identified onlay as an 18 to 20 year old Black male with a handgun leaned out the window and fired four shots. One round hit a male Hispanic student in the heel of his foot. The other two victims fled the area on foot. The suspects drove away, but the suspect vehicle was found abandoned in the vicinity. The suspects were described as three male Blacks, and were last reported to have gotten away in a tan Ford Ranger pick up truck.

The victim, a 9th grader at North High, will not be identified because he is a minor. He stated he did not know the suspects, and the reason for the shooting is under investigation. The victim is not identified as a gang member.

Eisenhower And Frisbie Are Distinguished Schools

BY BILLY JOHNSON, JR.

Against all the odds, Rialto schools Frisbie Middle School and Eisenhower High continue to excel. Representatives from these and other area schools - Redlands High, Richardson Prep. and San Bernardino High - recently traveled to Santa Clara to be honored in the state's distinguished schools awards ceremony.

This year the program recognized 180 California secondary schools to increase local awareness of the school's accomplishments and to promote their successful educational programs.

Shalimar Horsely, Frisbie Middle School principal, explains "the 12 page application for the distinguished schools award asks applicants to explain how they are excelling in the areas of vision, leadership, assessment and accountability, support and organization."

A review team, evaluates all the applications submitted from schools and selects finalists. The review team then visits the various finalists to validate their applications.

Horsely says when Frisbie made it to the validation stage she was "very, very excited and honored that [Frisbie] made it that far. I'm just glad to be on the right track."

Horsely and Eisenhower Principal Edna Herring agree many do not expect their students to excel. Herring feels this is because many of their students are either bilingual, on AFDC, in the Chapter 1 program, or are from foster or single parent homes. Herring stresses, "We demand that our kids do well."

Herring adds, "One of Eisenhower's strengths is their persistence of maintaining high expectations for [their] students." Last year, Eisenhower received the program's Blue Ribbon Award for excellence. Both Eisenhower and Frisbie have implemented several enrichment programs to help students become more successful.

Herring praises Eisenhower teachers for their student's improvement in SAT and Golden State Exam test scores. She says the increased scores also "puts teachers on notice [for providing effective instruction]. It's not only the comprehension of the students being tested."

Horsely says she is glad Frisbie has "gotten away from tracking: placing kids of same abilities together." Instead, she says, they "do heterogeneous grouping which offers strong curriculum to everyone. Why keep teaching low skill students

"dummy stuff." They will not grow."

Horsely proudly notes, being recognized "is a turnaround because it proves that providing the right programs can help the child [despite the odds]."

The two principals, have uncovered the right formula for success and "lean on each other to hang in there," says Herring. She continues, "There's almost like a silent pat on the back in support of each other."

Horsely laughs as she remembers when she was first placed at Frisbie. She says "A lot of people didn't see it as a positive move. But I saw it then and I see it now as a blessing from God - to give me an opportunity to work with such a quality program, students and staff."

Minter Tells His WWII Story

BY CHERYL BROWN

This week marks the 50th Anniversary of the beginning of World War II. From the television coverage, you'd think none of the troops were Black.

Marvin N. Minter, after 50 years of silence, spoke with Black Voice about the days following the assault on Normandy, located on the beach of France.

Minter said two million troops were still in England on D-Day. They were waiting for the word to go into Normandy as a part of the second wave.

He was in the Third Army, commanded by General Patton, supporting Field Artillery.

Minter said everyone was scared. "It was the most frightening experience of my life. But I remember thinking, as I was trapped by live fire, in 50 years none of this will matter." Little did he know that 50 years later he would still be alive to talk about it.

Minter then recalled something that some people want to say never happened, the concentration camps.

"We were marched into the concentration camp at Dachau, there were thousands of bodies, left like sacks of flour. The smell was horrible," he said.

"Hitler was an absolute lunatic, an animal. He not only killed Jews, he killed Russians, gypsies, gays, cripples, and the mentally impaired," he said.

"When we arrived everyone was not dead, some of the people were dying from starvation. The Germans in Hitler's Army ran away before we arrived.

Seymours Celebrate Fiftieth Year

Fifty years ago Charles and Madeline Seymour eloped from Detroit, Michigan to Ohio. Both were single parents of two children each. Together they had a daughter and their family was complete.

Last week they celebrated their marriage. Both were a part of the war effort working in the same bomber plant in nearby Ypsilanti, MI.

"In those days life was hard, I had to help with the care of the children," said Mr. Seymour. After the war Mrs. Seymour became a full-time homemaker, while he worked various jobs. The youngest child began school and she went to college to fulfill her life's dream of teaching.

In 1959 they moved to Los Angeles and ten years later to San Bernardino. She taught school and he started a weekly newspaper, the Tribune.

The newspaper closed down after a couple of years and he opened the Inland Mailing Service. He was the only direct mailer in the county of San Bernardino. Both have retired; both are active in their respective churches.

History doesn't paint how bad Hitler really was."

Minter said the remembrance of this time 50 years ago is still painful.

Will The Real CSUSB Please Stand Up

PART II
BY DR. MILDRED HENRY

It appears, then, that CSUSB is punishing this professor for carrying out the mission of the CSU system - to serve the educational needs of the community. If this is not the real CSUSB, please stand up, correctly interpret the mission of the CSU system, and correct the injustices perpetrated therefrom.

PAL Center activities were not considered professional. However, I grew professionally while securing funding for the 1,000 college bound students, at 14 school sites, enrolled in the PAL Center's Educational Talent Search Program. I grew with the 21 former dropouts who graduated with high school diplomas in June 1993, the 97 who received academic training and the 46 who received permanent employment in the Operation RETAIN program.

Growth was attained with the 133 summer-employed, 14 to 21 year-old at-risk youth enrolled in Project Earn and Learn, who worked jobs four days per week, and attended classes on the campus of CSUSB the fifth day. I grew professionally with the Talent Search participants encouraged to enter college through campus visits to CSUSB, USC, UCLA, and San Diego; and with the nine (9) GAIN participants who received adult basic education (ABE) certificates, and the eight (8) who received the general education development (GED) certificates through Operation Reclaim.

I grew professionally when gang and former gang members of different sets sat at the same table studying and learning to become productive citizens. Professional growth activities and funded grants provided opportunities for individuals to walk in off the street seeking educational help to get off the welfare rolls. The Channel 2 6:00 p.m. news coverage of the PAL Center included an interview with a 25-year-old former drug addict mother of four who walked in and now thanks the PAL Center for helping to turn her life around. She is now a drug counselor, employed, and enrolled in college.

This is only a partial exposition of professional growth activities for one year. All activities above were funded by writing proposals and securing grants from the San Bernardino County Private Industry Council and the U.S. Department of Education.

The community service mission continues through the Training, Internship and Placement (TIP) Program which has placed 40 employed low-income youth in paid internship positions. It also continues through the Comprehensive Child Care Center which provides early intervention educational activities for 40 children aged two through twelve.

Through the various programs, including the Substance Abuse Mobile (SAM), tens of thousands have been educated.

Prevalent community problems were previously mentioned. The solution to the CSUSB service community's problems lies not in the corridors of Washington or Sacramento, nor the walls of more prisons, nor the pages of a referred journal to be read by learned colleagues.

The solution lies in positively impacting our service area, empowering our constituents, teaching them to read, to stay in school and graduate, to train and obtain employment, to go to college, and/or to attain whatever a dream an individual potential can achieve.

Diversity is defined as "different, unlike, varied." Some professors prefer to publish, others to practice. Some prefer education in sterile classrooms, others see education in the community as imperative. In diversity there is respect, appreciation, and equity for all.

In the words of the Cameroon African Proverb: "Rain does not fall on one roof alone."

It is hoped that CSUSB will capitalize on the strength of diversity and rescind its decision to deny promotion to its sole tenured African-American professor in the School of Education. This mother of five, who became a single parent, stood in the food stamp line, experienced and escaped the "welfare mentality", and empathizes with underclass populations, should be encouraged to remain a positive, visible CSUSB force in the community.

Education should not be punitive, but instead should assist individuals to achieve their potential, whether faculty members or street corner gang-bangers.

If education and service to the community is truly the mission of CSUSB, will the real CSUSB please stand up?

Hugh B. Price Selected President Of The National Urban League

The National Urban League recently named Hugh Price, a senior officer of the Rockefeller Foundation and a frequent commentator on social issues, as the seventh President and Chief Executive Officer of the nation's second-oldest civil rights organization. Mr. Price succeeds John E. Jacob, who headed the Urban League for 12 years.

"Hugh Price brings experience, vision, creativity and leadership to the Urban League at a time when the African-American community is in great need of an effective advocate for equal economic opportunity and a defender of hard-earned civil rights," said Reginald K. Brack, Jr., Chairman of the League's Board of Trustees and the Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Time Inc. "Hugh has a passion for justice and a commitment to developing solutions to the problems

Mr. Price said, "African-Americans have made many important strides in the 40 years since Brown vs. Board of Education. We can now be found in the highest and most

"The League is uniquely positioned to provide solutions to the problems of the minority community. More than any other civil rights organization, it fully utilizes the tools of advocacy, research, program service and bridge-building and does so by leveraging the strengths of a strong base in the communities it serves. I am excited about the opportunity to build on what has already been accomplished by the Urban League and to work with our 113 affiliates to create a national organization that aggressively and imaginatively addresses the challenges of the 1990s."

Different Types Of Strokes

DEAR DR. LEVISTER: What types of strokes are there? Is there anything that can be done to help a person with a stroke? S. V.

DEAR S.V.: Nearly one third of the five hundred thousand strokes that occur in the United States each year are fatal. Strokes are the leading cause of disability among adults. The 70 percent of surviving stroke victims usually have some impairment of the brain. This is a function of which part of the brain is injured.

A hemorrhagic stroke occurs when a leaking artery allows blood to flow into surrounding brain tissue. In some patients this leak occurs at the site of an aneurysm (an outward bulge from pressure on a weakened section of an artery). Hemorrhage accounts for about 20 percent of all strokes. These strokes are sometimes preceded by severe headaches or blurred vision but often there are no warning signs. Surgery to correct an aneurysm can prevent a stroke. Data has shown that patients with hypertension, cigarette smokers and heavy drinkers have an increased risk of developing a hemorrhagic stroke.

Our Bodies

An ischemic stroke results from blockage of blood vessels limiting or preventing blood from going to the brain. This can result from a build up of atherosclerotic plaque or from blood clots (emboli) that have traveled through the blood stream.

These clots can form on artificial heart valves or in the heart chambers with such condition as atrial fibrillation or heart failure. To prevent embolic strokes many patients are treated with blood thinning medication such as coumadin or aspirins.

Surgical treatment for patients with ischemic strokes have yielded mixed results. Surgery to restore normal blood flow through the blocked vessels is done. Surgery on both the carotid arteries in the neck can help prevent a stroke when a vessel is narrowed but has not been shown to be an effective treatment for limiting damage from an evolving stroke.

Read us next week for the warning signs of a stroke and a crystal ball into the future.

Dr. Levister welcomes reader mail concerning their body but regrets that he is unable to answer individual letters. Your letters will be incorporated into the column as space permits. You may direct your letters to Dr. Levister in care of Voice News, P.O. Box 1581, Riverside, CA 92502.

Drug-Free Hero

U.S. Congressman Charles B. Rangel of New York was one of six recipients of Narconon International's 1994 "Drug-Free Hero" awards presented by actress Kirstie Alley, Narconon International Spokesperson. Chairman of the newly-formed Congressional Drug Caucus, Rangel was named a Narconon Drug-Free Hero for his leadership in the Nation's fight against drug abuse and trafficking, and as Congress' most outspoken advocate for more effective drug prevention and treatment programs. Alley, who overcame cocaine use through Narconon's drug rehabilitation program developed by writer and philosopher L. Ron Hubbard, takes special pride in presenting the Drug-Free Hero awards each year.

Supporting Our Scholars of Tomorrow...Today.

If we are to have scientists, engineers and other professionals for tomorrow, we must start today.

Our nation's future depends on its greatest natural resource, our young people. And their key to the future is education.

But many students simply can't afford to attend college. Government cutbacks in education support, fewer student loans and rising costs have combined to limit access to a college education for many minority students who need financial assistance.

That's why Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corporation continues to support educational opportunities with contributions to the United Negro College Fund and directly supports institutions of higher learning that serve minority students. Our commitment to UNCF is only part of Brown & Williamson's, and our employees' grants to education.

We know these future leaders, now studying in colleges and universities across the country, need our help. Given the opportunity, these young people will excel and secure a brighter future for themselves and for all of us.

Black Companies Hit Record $10 Billion In '93 Revenues

The nation's 100 largest Black-owned industrial/service companies and 100 top automobile dealers broke the $10 billion gross revenue barrier for the first time. With combined 1993 sales of $10.28 billion, these companies recorded a 13.9 percent increase in revenues, according to the exclusive B.E. 100s report in the June 1994 edition of BLACK ENTERPRISE Magazine. The report is recognized as the authoritative ranking of the nation's largest Black-owned companies.

More important, the B.E. 100s companies experienced their first major boost in employment—an incredible 20 percent increase—since 1988. These businesses employed over 45,000 people last year.

In its 22nd Annual Report on Black Business, BLACK ENTERPRISE reported that despite a slow national economic recovery, B.E. 100s companies fared better than the largest majority-owned corporations, where combined 1993 sales rose only 4.5 percent.

The annual report also includes the B.E. Financials which consist of:

- * the ranking of the 25 largest Black-owned banks and savings and loan associations
- * the B.E. Insurance List, comprised of the 15 largest black-owned insurance firms
- * the ranking of the 15 largest Black-owned investment banks

"Despite fierce competition and an unforgiving economy, Black businesses were able to achieve greater productivity from increasingly scarce resources and yield a record breakthrough of over $10 billion in revenues," said BLACK ENTERPRISE publisher Earl G. Graves. "The entrepreneurs of the B.E. 100s companies provide powerful examples of what entrepreneurial courage is all about."

New York-based Beatrice International Holdings Inc. held on to its first-place spot on the B.E. Industrial/Service 100 list with more than $1.7 billion in revenues. Johnson Publishing Company of Chicago remained the second-largest company on the list, posting revenues of $293.8 million in 1993.

Among the industrial/service corporations, food and beverage companies posted the highest percentage of sales while technology companies experienced the greatest growth.

"The growth trend of Black business in traditional areas such as food and beverage distribution is due to an increase in African-American ownership of fast food outlets and supermarket chains in the inner cities," said editor-in-chief Sheryl Hilliard Tucker.

TWO DIFFERENT DIRECTIONS IN A MARRIAGE

QUESTION: Dear Dr. Woods, Would God's purpose for a marriage take a couple in two seemingly different directions? My wife's goal in church is to minister to children. My goal is hospitality, such as ushering.

A.A., Moreno Valley, CA
ANSWER: Genesis 2:24, Ephesians 5:31 and Matthew 19:5 indicate God's plan for husband and wife, that is, the two come together and become one flesh. Mathematically speaking, this is the only case where one plus one equals one. All marital problems can be traced to the couple acting as two instead of acting as one.

The bachelor and bachelorette spirit must be crucified at the wedding altar. All selfishness and self-centeredness must be illuminated to have a successful marriage. Hence, a

Questions And Answers

spouse can no longer have their "things", their friends, their goals, their dreams. It must become our things, our friends, our goals, our dreams.

It would be great if you and your wife could work together in the same church auxiliary.

This does not always happen. However, you must be supportive and aware of the responsibilities of your spouse. Don't focus on your area of concern at the neglect of the concerns of your spouse. Do not minimize the significance of their responsibilities. Though you may not be directly involved in your spouse's endeavours, do as much as possible to identify with and "own" their endeavours. The law of giving applies here. If you show concern ("give") for your wife's endeavors, she will show concern for your's.

If you have a question that you would like answered, write: Dr. Reginald L. Woods, Life Changing Ministries, P.O. Box 9778, San Bernardino, CA 92427-9778.

A Cry For Help Written For Those Who Have Lost Their Voice

ICED

A NOVEL

RAY SHELL

ICED, an extraordinary debut novel by Ray Shell that will be published in seven countries, will be published in the United States by Random House in June. Written in the form of a crack addict's diary, Shell has pulled off a feat of empathic imagination by giving flesh and blood, even humor and hope, to a man who has stood, until now, nearly invisible behind the statistics and clichés of urban violence. ICED is a cry for help written for those who have all but lost their voices.

Cornelius Washington Jr. does not fit the crack addict mold stuck in the popular mind—as did very few of the addicts Shell interviewed while researching his novel. A product of a strictly religious lower-middle class family, Cornelius excelled at school, escaped from the projects, and went to Columbia on full scholarship. Doors were open to him, and he was on his way to making it in the music business when a friend introduced him to “the pipe, the white goodness.”

Mesmerized, if horrified, the reader follows Cornelius's path from “the me-that-usta-be” toward the state he fears most: the “vampire-zombie”—one of the lost souls whose “brains have been zapped by too much of everything.” Usually homeless, fierce and “dirty-dusted-gray-looking, they are the truly dangerous ones. They will do anything to get piped. ANYTHING!!!!”

The reality Shell has captured is harsh and hard to look at, but his narrative compels the reader to follow. Cornelius describes his present condition without asking for sympathy and begging no one's forgiveness. Yet the stream of his memories show that he has been a caring, loving man.

“I didn't know that I knew any crack addicts,” Shell has said. An American actor who has lived the last ten years successfully working in London, he thought that crack was “a social problem that afflicted the ‘gangsta’ inclined, economically deprived youngsters that lived in urban hot-houses in America.” It was when he returned to his native country, touring in a musical from city to city, that he discovered “whole handfuls of close friends of mine—gifted, intelligent, and economically sound—were reeling from the destruction that this nefarious drug had rained on their lives.”

The authenticity of Shell's description of crack addiction makes this novel a unique document of a tragic contemporary phenomenon. Through his character's stream of consciousness the reader experiences emotions that range from contentment to rage—emotions so real that it feels as though we are illicitly peering into his most private, personal thoughts.

Sanders Bursts Onto The Scene With “Her Own Place”

Dori Sanders' first novel CLOVER was what people in the publishing world call a “break out book”—a book that not only sold well, but won

York Times captured the novel's sweet essence best when Esther Fein wrote, “HER OWN PLACE is about Mae Lee Barnes, who matures from a rural South Carolina teenager, all buckled knees for her high school sweetheart, to an abandoned mother of five whose fierce reserves and constant humor help her family to prosper. Although the novel spans the decades from World War II to the present, subtly covering such subjects as racism and AIDS, it moves at the gentle, timeless pace of Willa Cather.” Without sermons or tirades, Sanders tells the story of ordinary people, Black and White, living and taking part in momentous transformation of lifestyle, attitudes, and ways of heart and mind.

At the same time, the struggles Mae Lee faces from wartime work to marriage and motherhood, from segregation to the civil rights movement, can be seen to symbolize the problems the second half of the twentieth century posed for African-Americans. Mae Lee Barnes is an indomitable character unaware of her courage. At first glance, she is exceptionally unexceptional, but as the HER OWN PLACE progresses, Mae Lee Barnes strength, humor, and insight pull her family and friends along.

There's Only One Rational Reason For Not Advertising In The Black Voice News.

You've Already Got More Business Than You Can Handle.

Nothing makes the cash register ring like a newspaper ad. Studies prove it. For instance, newspaper ads more than doubles the sale of package goods. (Not increases, doubles it.) And we're not talking about fire sales and cents-off items. No, we're talking package goods at full-blown, retail prices. Now that's what you call powerful advertising medium. And coincidentally, that's exactly what consumers call it too.

In survey, they cite newspapers as the medium of choice for shopping advice. The place they turn when they want to buy. The place they're actually looking for ads, not trying to avoid them. (Ha, bet you never heard anyone say that about T.V. or radio.) the point is pretty clear. You should be advertising in the Black Voice News. Unless of course, you've got some strange aversion to sales.
